- Time Allotted for the Activity: 10 Minutes

- Details of the Implementation:

A one-minute paper activity was implemented to assess student understanding of Google Analytics and AdWords. At the end of the session, students were asked to write a brief reflection on how these tools contribute to effective marketing strategies, focusing on insights such as measuring campaign performance, audience targeting, and ROI tracking. This technique aimed to quickly assess students' understanding, identify areas of confusion, and gather immediate feedback on the teaching content and delivery.

Reflective Critique:❖ *Feedback of practice from students and other stakeholders:

- o Students were actively engaged during the activity.
- o The activity provided a clear understanding of Google AdWords and its relevance in digital marketing.

❖ Benefit of the practice:

- o Students were able to clearly identify and recall essential components of Google AdWords, such as ad rank, bidding strategies, keyword match types, and Quality Score.
- o Students were encouraged to think like digital marketers by considering metrics that matter, such as click-through rate (CTR), cost per click (CPC), and bounce rate.
- o Created an opportunity for all students to participate, including those who may not usually speak up in class.
- o Few students less comfortable with verbal participation were able to contribute their insights and concerns in writing.

❖ Challenges faced in implementation:

- o Many students mentioned the same points (e.g., keywords, metrics, and benefits) without expanding or offering individual perspectives, making the data repetitive and less actionable.
- o For some students, this was their first experience with Google Ads or digital marketing analytics, so their write up was sometimes based on confusion or incomplete understanding.
