Innovative Practice Description

- Unit / Topic: Unit III / Organizing
- Course Outcome: CO 3
- Topic Learning Outcome: TLO10
- Activity Chosen: Root Cause Analysis
- Justification: Root Cause Analysis helps the students to identify the various possible causes for a problem which may help them to eliminate the problem in the future.

Group Activity on Root Cause Analysis

The role of a manager in an organization is not only restricted to rectify or solve the problems that have occurred. They have to prevent the repetition of occurrence in future. As a part of prevention the manager must analyze all the possible causes for the failure of the system or procedure. In order to make the students to get exposed in analyzing the possible causes, a group activity on root cause analysis was given.

Here the students were grouped into 4 in a team. They were given a case study that the overall performance of the organization have declined for which they have to identify all possible major root causes and sub root causes for the declination in performance. After that one from each team will summarize their root causes they have identified and finally the consolidated root causes are summed up.

OUTCOME:

Through this activity the students are made to work in a team and this enabled a brainstorming discussion. Thus the students were made to understand that the team work will give a better solution.

The students are exposed how to identify the all possible major and root causes for a given situation which will help them to do the same when they work in an organization

Innovative Practice Description

- Unit / Topic: Unit IV/ Directing
- Course Outcome: CO 4
- Topic Learning Outcome:
 - Understand the Concept of Directing
 - Analyze Leadership Styles and Their Impact
 - Recognize the Elements of Effective Communication
 - Motivate Teams and Employees
 - Coordinate and Align Efforts Toward Objectives
 - Evaluate the Role of Supervision
 - Assess the Ethical Implications of Directing
- Activity Chosen: Mind Map
- Justification: Mind maps serve as an effective study tool. They provide a structured yet flexible format for learners to review the key principles and applications of directing in preparation. Mind mapping is an interactive activity that helps learners actively engage with the topic. It encourages them to organize information creatively, which enhances memory retention and recall.

Effective Communication

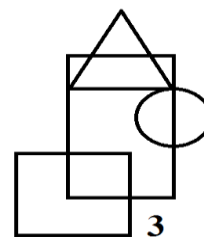

This activity stresses the point that asking questions on the part of the listener and being clear and concise on the part of the speakers are essential for obtaining intended results. The given drawing should be verbally explained step by step by the team members so that the listener is able to draw it on the board correctly.
