Innovative Practice Description

- Unit / Topic: Unit I / Digital Marketing Startagy

- Course Outcome: CO1

- Topic Learning Outcome: TLO1

- Activity Chosen: Role Play

- Justification:

Role play is an effective innovative practice that brings the concept of Digital Marketing Strategy to life by simulating real-world marketing scenarios. In this activity, students take on different roles such as marketing manager, content creator, SEO specialist, or social media analyst to create and present a marketing strategy for a hypothetical product or brand. This approach encourages active participation, especially from students who are usually passive learners. It enhances engagement, creativity, and collaborative learning. By applying theoretical knowledge to a realistic business context, students develop critical skills such as strategic planning, decision-making, communication, teamwork, and problem-solving. Role play not only makes learning dynamic and interactive but also improves retention and prepares students for practical challenges in the digital marketing field.

Reflective Critique:

❖ Feedback of practice from students and other stakeholders:

- Through this activity, students were able to easily understand how different roles contribute to a successful digital marketing campaign.
- Students expressed that the role play was engaging and helped them apply theoretical knowledge in a practical, real-world scenario, making the learning experience more interactive and enjoyable.

Benefit of the practice:

- The role play method helped students improve critical skills such as teamwork, creativity, communication, and strategic thinking. It bridged the gap between classroom concepts and actual industry practices, thus increasing their confidence in handling real-world marketing tasks.

Challenges faced in implementation:

- Some students initially found it difficult to take on unfamiliar roles like SEO analyst or content strategist due to a lack of real-world exposure.
- Limited access to digital tools and platforms (e.g., Canva, Google Ads, Meta Business Suite) within the classroom environment restricted the depth of simulation that could be achieved during the activity.
